

IS YOUR BUSINESS WORKING TO CREATE JOBS AND IMPROVE YOUR COMMUNITY?

Apply for free office space and coaching to help your business grow!

The Boston Impact Initiative and the Boston Ujima Project are teaming up to sponsor a local business that will receive free space and executive coaching as a member of the Fields Corner Business Lab.

We are currently seeking applications from businesses in Dorchester, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury and Mattapan that embody our shared commitment to economic justice, which means creating opportunity for all people to own and control resources in their own communities.

Finalists selected by Boston Impact Initiative and Fields Corner Business Lab will be expected to pitch their business at the Ujima Founding Assembly on September 9.

Applying organizations (for-profit and non-profit) must be participating in one or more of these areas:

1. Challenging structures that perpetuate racial, social, economic and environmental injustice
2. Developing good jobs for the local community
3. Providing goods and services that meet community needs
4. Building healthy local food, transportation and energy systems
5. Engaging community through arts and culture and/or civic activism

To apply, please send the following information to john@fieldscornerbusinesslab.com:

- Organization name, address, website and any additional relevant information
- Contact name, title, email address and phone number
- Description of the organization's mission and how it meets the above criteria
- If a start-up, describe barriers to launch and when/how to overcome them
- If in operation, describe how long in operation and current financial condition

Boston residents, women, people of color, immigrants, queer and gender nonconforming people strongly encouraged to apply.
